Winner of Match Will Gain State Middleweight Title

Rosenberg and Krug Battle 15 Rounds for Championship Declared Vacated in N. Y. by Commission; Wolf-Jerome Semi-Final Promises Thriller

By Jack Lawrence

Dave Rosenberg, of Brooklyn, and Phil Krug, of Newark, will meet in a fifteen-round battle at the Velodrome this evening and the winner will be regarded by the New York State Boxing Commission as the middieweight champion of the world, a title generally conceded to be held by Johnny Wilson, of Boston. Rosenberg and Krug are supposed to make 160 pounds at 2 o'clock this afternoon. According to arrangements made vesterday the weighing-in ceremony will take place at Madison Square

While the public will probably still continue to regard Johnny Wilson as the world's middleweight champion, to-night's fight may go a long way toward instilling new life into a division that has almost died on its feet. It may also be the means of forcing Wilson to defend his title against some worthy opponent, a thing he has some worthy opponent, a thing he has failed to do since he stepped suddenly out of complete obscurity and mounted the somewhat tarnished middleweight throne.

To-night's fight is the culmination of a protracted and tiresome controversy that has been carried on intermittently ever since Wilson and Bryan Downey engaged in their fistic flasco at Boyle's Thirty Acres last Labor Day. That fight seemed to indicate clearly that Wilson would be a mark for even a second-rate middleweight, and it resulted in a flood of challenges being hurled in his direction.

The champion was to receive $35,000 for his song and dance with Downey, but the battle was such a complete farce that Tex Rickard, who promoted it, held up the money with the sanc-farce that Tex Rickard, who promoted it, held up the money with the sanction of the New Jersey boxing authorities. There were several hearings before the Jersey Boxing Commission, but Wilson never received his money until he signed an agreement to meet Harry Greb in a fifteen-round contest in Madison Square Garden. As soon as he had Tex Rickard's check for $35,000 cashed Martin Killilea, Wilson's manager, repudiated the Greb agreement and said that he had signed it under duress and had no intention whatever of living up to it.

whatever of living up to it.

Thereafter Wilson continued to ignore all challenges from the best men in his division and confined his activities to the "sticks," where he engaged in a series of harmless affairs, some of which had a distinctly peculiar aspect.

The New York State Boxing Commission finally took a slant at the middleweight situation and accented Days.

mission finally took a siant at the middleweight situation and accepted Dave Rosenberg's challenge, together with a certified check as a guaranty of good faith. Wilson was notified of the challenge and was given a fixed time in which to accept or to meet some other fighter at least as good as Rosenberg.

Wilson never gave the commission or Rosenberg a tumble, treating both with a fine disdain.

Rosenberg a tumble, treating both with a fine disdain.

The commission then designated Harry Greb as Rosenberg's opponent, and declared that in this state the winner of this fight would be regarded as the middleweight champion of the universe. Greb, who had just won the American light heavyweight championship from Gene Tunney, failed to enthuse over the prospect of meeting Rosenberg and passed the proposition up in the hope of getting a match with Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight crown. He is still angling for this match.

The Boxing Commission was not discussed in its attempt to find a suitable opponent for the Brooklyn scrapper and it finally hit upon Phil Krug, who had been clamoring for a chance at Wilson. The proposition seemed to appeal to Rosenberg, as he had taken outte a pasting from Krug over in Newark. Dave has always declared that this was all a mistake and that he would ruin Phil's championship assistations if he ever ran across him McAllister, scored a sense

Johnny Dundee for the featherweight hampionship held by Johnny Kilbane. Harriers, a nine-yard handicap man, was second. Two other New York athletes, Sid Leslie and Sol Butler, were shutout in their respective events belowed by the commissioners in dealing with Kilbane.
